

Deep Learning

Neural Networks

A neural network contains layers of interconnected neurons. Weights are adjusted during training so that the network can learn patterns from input data.

Convolutional Neural Networks

Convolutional neural networks, or CNNs, are commonly used for image tasks. Convolution filters learn spatial patterns such as edges, textures, and shapes.

Training

Deep learning models are trained using an optimization algorithm such as gradient descent. Backpropagation calculates gradients that are used to update model parameters.